BIG GAME HUNTERS' PARADISE

Upper—On the Lookout for a Kill.—With a canoe full of trophies of moose and caribou, the Thompson brothers expect a grizzly before calling it a day. Lower left—Getting Big Game.—Thompson Brothers, famous guides in the Caribou District, had a busy season this summer conducting parties in their territory. Bull moose such as shown in the photograph were plentiful and every member of the parties took home a trophy. Lower right—Caught at Last.—A giant grizzly, nine and one-half feet from claws to tip of the nose, was killed at Bear River, near Barkerville, B.C. Here he is with his toes turned up lying at the feet of one of the Thompson brothers. Inset—He Doesn't Want a Ferry.—A Caribou crossing from shore to shore, coveted antlers high up.

Norman Thompson and his brother, of Barkerville, British Columbia, are considered among the best hunting guides in the Canadian Pacific Rockies. They took a banker hunting last fall and after winding their way up a mountain creek Norm. asked the banker if he would like to find his way back. "Not on your life," said the man of dollars and cents, "if I tried to follow this trail back I would get cross-eyed and fall out of the saddle."

The latter had what he called the "most wonderful time in my life getting lost away off in the hills." Later he got what he went after, a moose, a caribou and a tricky grizzly. Two years ago Norm. showed a fellow three grizzlies and 51 caribou, setting up camp only about nine miles from town.

Only some of those who have explored the Canadian Pacific Rockies for game can convey to the uninitiated the joyous lust in the heart of the hunter. The glorious monarch of the forest running swiftly, head erect, chest heaving, nostrils dilated. The next minute the ruler of a wooded domain is prone and lifeless at the feet of some straight-shooting hunter.

Never will he roam the wilds again or breast the rolling waves in crossing lakes and streams and rivers. No more will he know the sweet, fragrant odors of woods and forest. His great heart broken, the bull moose is majestic even in death.

Perhaps some few months later his head will grace the library of a man's home in a city. Then the captor may remember the thrill of the first hunt and the capture of his first prize. But in the meantime, the hunters go onward. The Rockies are also the playground of caribou and grizzlies, and the visitors are plentifully supplied with trophies before they turn back toward civilization.

MR. WHISTON ON THE HOSPITAL QUESTION

Mr. K. Whiston from the Provincial Department of Health, spoke in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Tuesday evening on the subject of Municipal hospitals. He was accompanied by Messrs Bowerman and MacLeod of Wainwright. After Mr. Bowerman had spoken briefly in favour of the proposed Municipal district as mapped out in the territory lying east of Viking to the boundary line,— Mr. Whiston took the floor.

By reason of his knowledge of the benefits to be derived and the oftentimes dreadful consequences of lacking such surgical and medical aid Mr. Whiston treated his subject with almost evangelical fervour. At the same time he emphasised the fact that neither he nor the government were urging any district to have a Municipal hospital. It was entirely up to ourselves.

But he also emphasised the fact that even if we had the best possible agricultural district in other respects, still lacking this health centre we were but a one armed district. The presence of such an institution not only cured disease but prevented it in a way that the city hospitals, by reason of distance and excessive costs could not do. The Municipal Hospital guaranteed health. One point in this connection especially helpful was that no child whose backwardness at school was due to diseased tonsils and other like ailments, need remain backward with the facilities provided for him practically at home in a municipal hospital.

Kinds and Costs

Mr. Whiston said there were 2 kinds of hospitals, Municipal and City. Of these 15 were municipal. Six or seven were R. C. hospitals and 86 others which adopted a schedule of fees and collected from the patients, which system was the exact reverse of the municipal system which raised its funds by municipal taxation and a nominal charge of $1.00 a day to the patient. The tax for the proposed hospital would be 3 cents an acre of $4.80 per quarter section. It was a form of health insurance, and even if it seemed high, one had only to compare it with the city hospital rates, to realize that to the ordinary working man or farmer, it would be a boon financially. He cited the charges made in Edmonton or Calgary for a major operation to come close to $200, for the barest service, when to this was added train fare, hotel expenses, etc., the benefit of the municipal institution must be apparent to all.

A Mark of Progress

Mr. Whiston declared that the movement for a municipal hospital was on a par with the various pools amongst the farmers and was indicative of progressive thought in the districts adopting it. He referred to the anticipated influx of

CONQUERING HOT TEMPER

By Dr. C. M. Hinks
Medical Director, Canadian Committee for Mental Hygiene.

Children ought to have the opportunity of learning to control an outbreak of temper. Do not shield and protect them from friction. They will meet it in later life and opposition is a sort of "tonic" to teach them to master themselves.

They should learn before they are a year old that crying and fits of temper will not get them what they want. Teach them that control and not temper will not win their desires.

Whenever possible, an attack of temper should be cut short at the beginning. Petting or indulgence rarely pays. Extreme corporal punishment on the other hand is often a mistake. To ignore the attack or to put the child to bed is sometimes the best remedy.

In older children the bad habit may be broken by pointing out that anyone who loses his temper makes a fool of himself; loses his dignity and is ridiculous and sometimes a contemptible object to his fellows. Nobody likes to make a donkey of himself. "He who conquers himself is greater than he that conquers a city" can be used to encourage a child to acquire selfmastery.

As proof of the fact that short courses are a beneficial part of rural activities Mr. G. M. Cormie, District Poultry Promoter for Alberta under the Dominion Live Stock Branch states that there is a decided improvement in the class of poultry being kept in the Districts where short courses were held last year.

MY SEARCH FOR THE KING'S TREASURE

Told By Lieut. Col. F. M. Foss
Late of the Indian Army

About the year 1890 I was stationed near Delhi, and having earned ten days' leave decided to spend it by exploring some places off the beaten track, combining a little shooting with my wanderings.

Glancing idly through a gazetteer of Delhi, the name of a village called Sohna attracted my eye, and as Sohna means "gold" in Hindustani my curiosity was aroused and I proceeded to make inquiries. I discovered that when the rains came the inhabitants always put out their coarse country blankets in the beds of the streams. Flakes of gold were sometimes washed down from reefs away in the mountains, became entangled in the rough hairs of the blankets, and were then collected and sold.

The idea of fishing for gold in this way rather appealed to me, and I decided I would like to try my luck at it. I therefore called upon the Deputy Commissioner and asked him to supply me with the customary letter to the headmen of the villages through which I must pass, requesting them to provide me and my servants with the necessary provisions and forage for my journey.

On the following morning I hired a native vehicle known in those days as a "Jingling Johnnie," and accompanied by "Daniel," my bulldog and my orderly, started upon my adventure. I reached Sohna towards

Record Game Catch For Ontario

Load of Deer at Toronto Dominion Express Offices

A record hunting season for the Province of Ontario is indicated in the shipments of deer and moose during the month of November. Dominion Express officials reported that they had been receiving from forty to fifty deer a day, the majority having fallen to hunters in Pickering, Metagama, Parry Sound and Algoma districts and along the Sault line.

Large quantities of moose meat have been shipped down from Metagama and the Algoma district, but most of these have fallen to hunters from the United States. Seven or eight antlers a day have been sent for some time past, more than half of these being addressed to points in the State of New York. This is accountable by the fact that a number of New Yorkers went into the bush early and before the season started so that what moose is coming out now fell to guns that were on the ground when the season opened.

One large party came out of Pickering one morning with seventeen deer and one bear, the only bear reported in this district this season.

Kind looks, kind words, kind grace when men are in trouble, acts, and warm hand shakes—these are the secondary means of ties.

en in municipal hospitals he said that skilled surgeons were sent to all cases. That all nurses in charge were graduates, though probationers were there to assist and that not only was there a Municipal Hospital Board consisting of one councillor from each rural municipality but that there was supervision from the Government also. The University hospital acted as a terminal for the municipal, and all the medical and surgical facilities there were at the disposal of the rural hospital.

Ex-Premier Greenfield had The Idea

Striking a new note he said this Act had been called the Stewart Act. To his thinking ex-premier Greenfield had the original thought. Several years while speaking at a Municipal Convention in Calgary made an earnest plea for medical aid of this description, telling of the dire need for it in the north, where no doctor being available he had had to travel as far as 70 miles to a case, because "he had some Slight Knowledge of Animal Husbandry"

Such things should not happen. Women were the chief asset of the home, and yet because of such conditions how many of them had been lost to husband and children through lack of skilled treatment and aid. Others lived through only to be semi-invalids for life.

He characterised the Municipal petition of the wives and mothers in the province for the better health of the home, and characterised and district financially fit to meet the tax as consisting of apathetic and improvident individuals, lacking in Real Vision for Themselves and District.

There are 15 Municipal hospitals operating in the province, viz. Manville, Vermilion, Drumheller, Islay, Cardston, Bassano, Conoway, Lloydminster, Hanna, Viking, High River, Provost, Athabasca, Red Deer, and Grande Prairie.

None of these hospitals have exceeded their initial charge of 3 cents per quarter section, and some have been able to decrease charges. All of them have money in the treasury, some to the extent of $8000. This in marked contrast to the city hospitals which according to Mr. Whiston are all in a state of insolvency.

A. Y. ARMOUR

THE FIDGETY CHILD

By, Dr. C. M. Hincks, Medical Director Canadian National Committee for Mental Hygiene

A child's nervousness depends largely on outside influence. Parental example of poise and calm in the face of irritating circumstances is the finest antidote for a nervous child.

Faulty feeding in infancy and early childhood may weaken the nervous system. All authorities approve of good simple food including milk, meat, vegetables and fruit, avoiding tea, coffee, alcohol and rich pastry.

Children should not be brought up too tenderly. They should be subjected to a hardening process. The child that is finicky about his diet or is brought up so that he is shielded from bad weather and becomes sensitive to slight changes of heat and cold is liable to nervous ills.

One reason why women are much more prone to nervous ailments than men is that as girls they have less chance for wholesome games and exercises. Out of door life, swimming, walking, rowing, play of all kinds and systematic gymnastics will do much to mitigate a nervous tendency.

MR. P. LAUGHTON OF RIDGECLOUGH PASSES TO REST

Those who knew Mr. Laughton will remember him as a man of a lovable and kindly disposition who was ever ready to help his neighbour; and whose chief fault lay perhaps in his willingness to sacrifice his own interests to help the other fellow out.

Providence had bestowed on Mr. Laughton the priceless gift of music. As an organist he had played in many of the great cathedrals in England; and it was when seated at an organ—as he poured forth the flood of music from his soul, that one could foresee the great possibilities of a future that is denied him.

He leaves to mourn his loss a mother, and a brother and sister in England. The sympathies of Ridgeloough and Dina residents will go out to these sorrowing relatives—many many miles away; face of one they loved.

"He is gone—the sweet musician,
He is drawn a little nearer—
To the Master of all Music."

"MAKE IMMIGRATION HUMAN" SAYS C. P. R. PRESIDENT: SIR THOMAS WHITE PAYS HIM HIGH TRIBUTE

E. W. Beatty, K.C.,
Chairman and President of the C.P.R.

Sir Thomas White,
Former Federal Finance Minister.

Addressing the Associated Boards of Trade banquet at Winnipeg recently, E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said that one of the most significant facts of the conference was the desire of men from all parts of Canada to discuss the country's problems from an economic and national point of view, free from the bewildering influence of political partisanship. "This," Mr. Beatty said, "leads me to the inevitable conclusion that the question of Confederation on the principles of national unity which guided the fathers in establishing it cannot be solved by political manipulation, but only by that mental attitude which comes from understanding and is the result of honest education."

In order to achieve national prosperity, Mr. Beatty advocated an extensive immigration policy to supply the man power necessary for the "largest undeveloped country in the world." "If I had any suggestion to make in respect to this question," continued the president, "I would suggest that we take it out of the field of statistics and place it in the field of human relations. We are apt to forget that the people who come to our shores are not so many hundreds or thousands of British or Continentals with or without settlers' effects. They are human beings, members of families who have torn themselves up from old homes, homes in some cases centuries old, to come and live in Canada, to be neighbours, if we are willing to be neighbourly, and to become good citizens if we only hold out a welcoming hand."

"We realize how great the wrench must be when we learn that some bring with them a handful of earth so that when the time comes for them to die in Canada it may be scattered over their coffins. I wonder how many Canadians, who have made the trek to the United States, have ever thought to carry with them a handful of Canadian soil. No immigration scheme for Canada can ever achieve success unless due allowance is made for such human factors."

On the same occasion Sir Thomas White, former Federal Minister of Finance, paid a high tribute to Mr. Beatty. Sir Thomas said that he had always looked upon Mr. Beatty as a representative Canadian who typified the qualities which are to be found in true Canadians. Mr. Beatty had carved his own niche in Canadian affairs and had made his own way in the world as in the manner of Canadians. As president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Mr. Beatty occupied one of the highest positions in the Dominion and was absolutely unspoiled by his enormous success, and Sir Thomas liked to think that in this the former was also a characteristic Canadian.

Referring to the improvement of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the former Finance Minister pointed out that the history of the Dominion and the Company were intertwined and could not be dissociated. The Canadian Pacific Railway had stood as the type of exemplary Canadian enterprise and courage in the face of apparently insurmountable obstacles. Sir Thomas also commented favorably on the good work the Canadian Pacific Railway had done during the Great War, and later on in going ahead with work, at the request of the Government, in order to give employment to soldiers who were returning after the war.

quartz reef which formed the "matrix," or mother-lode, of the gold supply, but I met with little success, and finally went back to the village, vowing that the magnetic name of Sohna was a delusion and a snare, and that I would spend the rest of my leave in shooting.

Upon my return I was met by Abdul Goofoor, who informed me that his father was much better and most anxious to see the saved his life. Thus in the darkness of his mud hut, I once more greeted old Abdul Azize, obviously greatly improved in health. After some conversation, he asked me a direct question.

"Sahib," he said gravely, "for what reason do you visit Sohna, where no Sahib ever comes?"

"Gold, Abdul Azize," I replied briefly. "I came in search of gold."

"And has the Sahib found it?" he asked again, his filmy eyes fixed on my face with what seemed a world of cunning in their depths.

"No," I told him, "I haven't. The very small quantity of gold that is carried down from the reefs into the swollen streams hardly seems sufficient to justify the name of the village."

For a little while the old man was silent; then he spoke again, in a wheezy, cracked whisper, as if afraid the very walls of the hut might hear him.

"Ah, Sahib, but that is not why our village is called Sohna!" he said. "I know that is the reason given in the books of the Sahibs, but it is not the true one. We call our village by that name because in it lie hidden the gold and silver, the jewels and precious ornaments, that were the treasure of the great Delhi kings. You have saved my life, Sahib, and so I will tell you the story as my father told it to me."

When the mutiny occurred in 1857 John Nicholson, with the loyal Sikhs, surrounded Delhi. British troops, supported by the After the Cawpore Massacre the villagers heard every day, from people who had fled from Delhi, that the British guns were steadily battering down the ramparts, and that the city might be stormed at any moment.

One morning just as daybreak was coming, we were aroused by a great number of horsemen riding at full gallop into the village and on going out, found two of the king of Delhi's sons, with an escort of about fifty mounted men, and two heavily laden pack-horses, resting, and preparing a meal. About ten minutes later a single native trooper dashed in with the news that he had seen the British troops inside Delhi, and that they were killing every native they came across.

Upon hearing this the princes and their attendants became panic-stricken and decided to fly at once. The cavalry escort was fit to continue the journey but the pack horses were so overweighed with their burden—which the villagers was told was treasure—that they were unable to go farther; and the princes were at a loss as to what to do. My father then pointed out to them some ancient tombs about a quarter mile away. He explained that they were connected by a underground passage, and that as the British troops never interfered with tombs or tombs the treasure would be quite safe if hidden there.

The princes readily agreed to this suggestion and my father then sent a couple of men to loosen the bricks that closed the mouth of the secret passage. Two of the princes followers then went into the tunnel, each carrying a heavy sack of gold, coins, and jewels, and one of our villagers followed them, dragging a weighty bag full of gold cups and similar articles. What happened afterward you will probably laugh at and disbelieve, Sahib, but it is nevertheless true for I have often heard my father tell the story, and he was a man who never lied.

After two 'sowars' (cavalry soldiers) (and our villager had gone some little distance into the tunnel, the villager, who was some little distance behind, heard the two sowars calling out that djins (evil spirits) had got them by the throat and were strangling them! The villager at once dropped his burden and rushed out, and after waiting in vain for the sowars to return our people concluded that they had been killed by the spirits and so replaced the bricks and closed up the passage. Not one of them dared to enter the tunnel to ascertain what had

In the meanwhile the terrified princes and their escort had mounted and ridden off, but a few minutes later a troop of Hodson's Horse galloped through on fresh mounts overtook the princes and their followers and killed them all, only one man escaping by hiding himself in a field of wheat. This man, named Mahomed Hussein by name, returned to the village under cover of darkness, after (Continued on page 7)

At the Dak bungalow which I proposed to make my headquarters for a few days I asked the chawkidar (caretaker) to tell Abdul Azize, the headman of the village, that an English officer had arrived and would like to see him. A few moments later Abdul Goofoor, the headman's son, appeared, and informed me that it was impossible for his father to comply with my request, as he was very seriously ill with malarial fever of a very severe type; his death, in fact, was expected at any moment. I happened to have in my kit a bottle of Dr. Warburg's fever tincture, a Government specific, and armed with this I went to visit Abdul Azize at his home, thinking I might perhaps be able to alleviate his sufferings.

I found the headman to be very old and emaciated, with a long straggling white beard and fast-glazing eyes. He was lying on a charpoy (Indian bed) in his mud hut, and, if appearances were any guide, his hours were numbered. However, I gave him some of the medicine and left the bottle with his son, with strict instructions that the dose was to be repeated every few hours. Then I went back to the bungalow, never expecting to see the old man alive again.

I spent the next two days following the traces of gold up the stream, hoping to discover the

Jack Frost Brings King Sport to Quebec

Chateau Frontenac Dog Team with trainer. Chateau Frontenac & Toboggan Slide. (Upper right) Trotting Races—Quebec.

What is expected to be the most brilliant winter season in the history of Quebec was launched in that city recently with the formation of the Winter Sports Club which is under the patronage of His Honor the Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Quebec, Hon. Narcisse Perodeau, Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Premier of the Province; and Mayor Jos. Samson of Quebec.

The Club has undertaken to arrange the International College Ski Competition, the International Snow Shoe Convention, the World Championship Snowshoe races, and the famous Quebec Dog Derby. The Ski competition will include a five-mile cross-country race, a ski-jumping contest, and tests in efficiency including Christiana turns.

Sight-seeing tours and sporting events will follow in harmonious succession right through the season in addition to the major events. In the Quebec Open Amateur Ski meeting in February, clubs from Montreal, Ottawa, Berlin, N.H., and others will compete. Ivin Nelson, amateur ski champion, and Oliver Kaldahl will be the ski instructors. A lady instructress is to be appointed and visitors to Quebec will be carefully instructed and taken out in parties.

As usual, skating will form one of the attractions. Lars Grafstrom and Mrs. Allan Kerr will act as instructors. Towards the end of January, arrangements have been made for a skating masquerade on the brilliantly illuminated open rink outside the Chateau Frontenac; while another masquerade may be held in February. The rink will also be available for smaller masquerade skating affairs.

Moonlight ski-runs and sleighing parties, the brightly lighted toboggan slide, music from dancing rooms in the Chateau, all will add to the gaiety and charm of the carnival. The Dufferin Terrace Toboggan Slide runs well over a quarter of a mile. A long climb back, but what a soothing sensation to come flying down a long, smooth stretch of ice as if the toboggan would never stop. Five Swiss bob-sleighs have been acquired and competitions will be arranged some time in February.

Besides the regular hockey league games, negotiations are in progress to arrange an exhibition game between Sons of Ireland and a Princeton University team, while there is also every possibility of having a few ladies hockey teams. Trips will be made periodically to the Shrine at St. Anne de Beaupré, Chateau Richer, Montmorency Falls and other beautiful sites about the city. A number of excursions will be made to the Island of Orleans via the ice bridge with skiing on the return journey. This novelty is expected to make a decided hit with tourists.

Fast horses have been trained for ski-joring and will also compete on a track of beaten snow in trotting races.

imply returns from his apiary must have everything in readiness before this active season commences. Nothing is more disheartening during the summer when neetra is coming in abundantly and the bees swarming, than to have insufficient equipment ready to take care of the situation.

The winter months offer an excellent opportunity for getting everything into workable shape. All equipment can be looked over carefully and any needed repair work done. The handling of colonies during the summer can be made much easier and more rapid if all supers and frames are scraped clean of propolis or bur combs. While cleaning the frames the combs may also be sorted leaving the best for use in the brood chambers and the inferior ones for the extracting supers. All broken, crooked or drone combs are best consigned to the melting pot. After the combs are cleaned store them in supers, tying the supers up with a queen excluder or hive cover on both bottom and top of the pile to exclude mice, otherwise the combs may be destroyed. Place in each super the proper number of combs needed for the summer work and mark each super or tier as to character of combs it contains. If the amount of supplies on hand is not sufficient for next year's needs, order new ones early, so that they may arrive in time to put together and paint before spring. Any cappings or broken combs saved during the summer may easily be rendered during the winter and the resultant wax manufactured into foundation for next summer's use.

The common opportunity comes as the divinest opportunity in the whole history of the world came, cradled in obscurity.

HOSPICE OF ST. BERNARD

The monks of the convent of St. Bernard are to enter the hotel business. Their hospitality, which has been proverbial for centuries has been taken advantage of to such an extent as to make it impossible to accommodate all who wished to be their guests.

The monks, therefore, decided to build a hotel near the convent where travellers might be put up for the night. Their original plan was to let the hotel concession to some restaurateur. Now they have decided that they might as well conduct the place themselves and obtain the revenue for their order.

ANTI-RUST EXPERTS TO MEET

In order to correlate the work done this season and plan for the 1926 campaign a conference of the experts who have been engaged in rust research work, has been called for September. The conference will be held in Minneapolis and will be attended by many prominent agriculturalists in the United States.

MY SEARCH FOR THE KINGS TREASURE

er it was clear of British troops and took up his abode there.

After about six months Mohamed Hussein went to my father and told him that, as he was the sole survivor of the party, he considered the treasure was his by right. My father saw no reason to dispute his claim, and the passage was accordingly opened and he went down into it, accompanied by the same villager who had made the previous attempt, and who, as before, cautiously kept at some distance in the rear. After a time this man heard shouts for help from Mohammed Hussein, the villager rushed out in terror and waited vainly for Mahomed to appear. He did not return, but to his dying day the villager declared that as he waited, trembling with fear at the entrance of the tunnel, he distinctly heard Mahomed's death rattle. After this second tragedy the passage was once more bricked up, Sahib, and from that day to this no one has dared to try and wrest the Mutiny treasure from the 'djins' that guard it.

The old man had become completely exhausted while telling me his story, and when he had finished made him rest. Then I said slowly;—

"I have been very much interested in your story, Abdul Aziz and as I came here with the express purpose of seeking gold I think I should have a shot at the treasure myself."

The old headman appeared genuinely distressed at my words, saying that as I had been the mans of saving his life it would grieve him deeply if he were the cause of losing mine. Finally, seeing that I was determined to enter the tunnel, he assured me that he would use his authority to insure that I was not molested by the villagers. If I had made up my mind to follow out my rash purpose, he said, I should have no other enemy to meet that the guardian 'djins'.

Next morning I started out, accompanied by my orderly, a native with a pickaxe and the faithful "Daniel", bound for the tomb which according to the headman's story held part of the treasure of the Delhi kings. I had come to the conclusion that the men who had entered the tunnel had either died of fright or had been bitten by poisonous snakes. I therefore took with me my shot-gun, both barrels of which loaded, a dozen cartridges, a candle-lantern, and a box of matches. With the whole population of the village as an audience assembled on an adjacent hill, we began to unbrick the tunnel.
